

ST. JACOBS OIL

A FEW POINTS
From a Thousand Facts.

It is a fact—that all patients within reach have renewed their testimony to St. Jacobs Oil, in almost every instance it has effected a permanent cure.

It is a fact—That St. Jacobs Oil is not only a relief, nor merely a remedy; it is, in one word, a cure. It soothes and soothes, heals and cures and literally conquers pain.

It is a fact—That St. Jacobs Oil in its effects is permanently curative to the whole group of muscular miseries and nervous agonies. It cures and stays cured.

It is a fact—That every constituent of the formula of St. Jacobs Oil exerts specific action in the cure of pain. Not an element of it would be dropped without an intelligent physician.

It is a fact—That St. Jacobs Oil penetrates and finds the pain-spot, holds on and cures. It cures permanently. It is the most reliable and cheapest.

It is a fact—That of the millions of St. Jacobs Oil sold every bottle contains a cure; every application gives relief; every bottle tested as to quality; every bottle bears the firm's signature.

It is a fact—That St. Jacobs Oil is known the world over; every testimony is true; every patient is amazed when cured; every druggist and chemist knows its virtues.

It is a fact—That St. Jacobs Oil can be applied even by a child, and as the best for man or beast, it will subdue chronic or acute pain in any form.

FARM NOTES.

Regulate the feed of your horses to correspond with the amount of work they are required to do.

A well-known horseman, who believes strongly in pedigree, says when compelled to choose between all pedigree and no horse, or all horse and no pedigree, he takes the horse every time.

If oats are crushed or just coarsely ground, before they are given to horses, they will prove more nourishing. In England they are passed through rollers. But if a horse's teeth are good it will generally grind its oats pretty well. There is a great difference in horses, however, in this respect, just as there is in men. Some bolt their food much more rapidly and less masticated than others. But whatever grain you feed, do not let the horse drink immediately after. If you do, much of the grain will be washed out of the stomach without being digested.

Barbed Wire Fences.

The barbed wire is a lawful fence in most States, but to avoid damages for injury to stock it must be made visible either by a board or a slight bank of earth thrown against it. With this precaution the danger to animals is reduced to almost nothing. Stock should, on being taken into a pasture inclosed by barbed wire, be led to it and their noses be touched once or twice to the barbs. They will need no further lessons to induce them to keep at a respectful distance.

It is sometimes said that the cow is a machine for the manufacture of milk and butter. This is true, with some important limitations. The cow is a living mechanism, and therefore requires more careful management than an inanimate machine could need. There is such a thing as wearing out cows by injudicious feeding. Good cows have enormous appetites, and demand abundant and nutritious food. But they should not be forced or tempted to eat more than they naturally will. While the coarser and less palatable ration should be given freely, yet grains and meal must be limited. Some of the great milk and butter records for short periods have been made by stimulation with food, which for animals is almost as destructive to health as stimulation by drink is to men. The only correct test of cows is their yearly product. Another way in which good cows are spoiled is by deficient nutrition during those times when they are not giving milk. The owner thinks that less and poorer feed will do them, and so the cow while bearing her calf is fed largely on straw and becomes poor.

Four Points in Farm Practice.

Mr. E. Martin Smith, Delhi, N. Y., has had forty years of successful husbandry, from report of which in O. C. Farmer, we glean the appended items of practice tested by time: "He hauls out the manure daily and spreads it on top of the snow in winter, which plan he thinks gives best results. Places stress on the advantage of running pigs in orchards, producing strong, healthy growth of pigs, and at the same time benefiting the trees. Has frequently saved considerable sums by the practice of keeping a cash account in connection with his diary, in the way of avoiding the repayment of small accounts once paid, where credit had failed to be given. Commends the drawing off of small stones so closely as is sometimes done. Believes that on his land they are an advantage in retaining heat and moisture in the soil. Would not remove these small stones from any land except such as might be termed stony land. Thinks it might pay on sidehills when plowing the last time preparatory to seeding down, to follow after the plow and throw them in the furrow and thus leave them below the surface. Has practised this some during the past few years, and is pleased with the result.

THE VALUE OF CREAMERY TO FARMERS.

Lexington Gazette.

We see it stated that Mr. Smith, of Fauquier, received from the Warrenton Creamery $112.25 for the milk of his twenty-nine cows in the month of June. We may add to this that Mr. Jacob D. Grove, of South River district, in Augusta county, received from the Waynesboro Creamery for the month of May for only twenty cows, $111.29 net money, after paying for his skim milk. The Waynesboro Creamery paid all during the summer eighty cents per hundred pounds for milk.

Mr. Grove, for one year, in which he milked from six to twenty cows—the average being fifteen—received from the Waynesboro Creamery $900 net. This did not include the milk or butter used in his own family; and besides this, he had the value of the calves that came during the year. During the month of May, above-mentioned, his cows were on grass.

To show the cash value to the farmers of Augusta of a creamery in their midst, we give the amount paid during the just ended month of January, by the Waynesboro Creamery, to some of them—the price paid for milk being $1.10 per 100 lbs.—D. E. Weaver (ten cows) $72.87; S. H. Weaver (ten cows) $62.53; G. K. Koerner, $46.61; T. Koerner, $40.63; C. Koerner, $47.59; and E. C. Shanks, $47.13.

Below is the price paid at the Waynesboro Creamery for milk per 100 pounds for the year closing, December, 1887, the average we think exceeding Loudoun or Fauquier Creameries: December, $1.10; January, $1.20; February, $1.10; March and April, $1.05; May, 90 cents; June, July, August and September, 80 cents; October and November, 90 cents. The patrons received during the summer months 20 cents for milk enough to make one pound of butter, which is a fine summer price for butter. At the separators, ten cents less per 100 pounds was paid for milk, the patrons receiving all their skim milk back without cost to them.

A new broom sweeps clean, but an old remedy that is reliable in practice better than all new ones. Warner's Log Cabin Hops and Bachu Remedy is an old household medicine of our ancestors. You will find it indispensable for dyspepsia, constipation, malaria and other diseases and it only costs $1.00.

Sugar Importers are hopeful that the cargo of one hundred and fifty cans of centrifugal sugar which arrived in New York from Cuba last Saturday, will call special attention to the injurious effects of the Sugar Trust recently established in that city. The cargo has been offered at 34 cents per pound, with cost and freight added, making a total of 5.91 cents per pound, without finding a buyer. Members of the Sugar Trust, however, have come forward and bid 3 cents per pound, with cost and freight, or 5.41 cents in all. The importer was obliged to accept this bid. It is stated that the Trust has issued a $15,000,000 mortgage on the plants put into the combination by the members, thus leaving the $60,000,000 of certificates clear for purposes of profit.

A gentleman in Atlanta is peculiarly afflicted. One of his eyes is dark blue in color, and the other is a light gray. In the daytime—from sunrise to sunset—he cannot see anything out of the blue eye, but sees distinctly and well with the gray eye; and from sunset to sunrise he cannot see anything with the gray eye. His hearing is similarly affected. He can hear only on the blind side; thus he can here with one ear during the daytime, and with one ear during the night. He never discovered this until recently.—Savannah News.

Misfortune is always good for something. If you have the misfortune to lose your hair, use Warner's Log Cabin Scalp and secure a better head than you had before. Price $1 per bottle.

A man who recently moved his household possessions for the first time says he got experience enough to last him for a lifetime. What a story a Knightville family could tell. It is said that during the last 18 years they have moved 67 times.—Lexington Journal.

Heifers Not Profitable.

A heifer is reckoned equal to half a cow, but she is not worth for immediate use half as much as a cow equally good proportionately and fully matured. Their milk is not equal in richness to that of a fully grown cow, as they use some portion of its nutrition in building up their own growth. Then the longer time required to get the smaller quantity of milk they give, is another serious item. While the teats are short, milking has to be done with thumb and finger, and slowly. They are not so likely to be stripped clean by careless milkers, especially if they are restless and fidgety. Still, a heifer carefully managed is all the time growing in value, while at least paying her way. She is more profitable to keep than an old cow.
